Shared and Electric Mobility for Green Cities

Message from the Guest Editors

In recent years, shared and electric mobility have been indicated to be effective for the reduction of greenhouse gas emssions from transportation towards green cities. This SI welcomes both theoretical and emperical studies on addressing a range of topics on shared mobility and electric mobility towards green cities. Possible topics may include but are not limited to:

- Environmental benefits of shared/electric mobility
- Supporting facilities planning related to shared/electric mobility.
- The relationships between shared mobility and traditional public transport
- Renewable energy enpowered electric mobility
- The barriers and limitations of shared/electric mobility
- The features of micromobility
- The usage of micromobility and its influence factors
- Shared mobility in the context of COVID-19

I/We look forward to receiving your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
