

Topical Collection

Social Polarization, Inequality and Segregation

Message from the Collection Editor

This Special Issue will comprise a selection of papers presenting original and innovative contributions to the study of social polarization, inequalities and segregation by adopting any scientific focus in areas related to natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities. It presents a particular interest in those studies that relate their perspectives of sustainability and/or sustainable development, according to the main interest of this journal. Papers selected for this Special Issue will be subject to a rigorous peer-review process for a fast and wide dissemination of research results, developments, and applications.
