

Special Issue

Sustainability and Energy-Saving in Construction and Building Materials

Message from the Guest Editors

Dear colleagues, Low carbon emission and energy-saving materials are pillar ingredients in making novel, smart and efficient buildings. In this sense, the “Sustainability and Energy-Saving in Construction and Building Materials” Special Issue is aimed at collecting the current state of the art and novel achievements on relevant topics that deal with the field of both sustainability and energy-saving in construction and building materials (CBMs). Thus, it will collect original manuscripts on current advances from physical, chemical, biological, life-cycle assessment, engineering, and materials science perspectives related to sustainable, carbon-neutral, environmental-friendly, and energy-neutral topics on CBMs.

With this collection, and have the ambition to hugely stimulate and spread the latest knowledge on Sustainability and Energy-Saving in Construction and Building Materials. The SI will be a recipe for new ideas on the aforementioned topics for young investigators as well as leading experts in the field of materials science and engineering.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
