Sustainable Fashion and Sustainable Luxury Markets

Message from the Guest Editors

The negative societal and environmental impacts of Fashion and Luxury Markets are clearly highlighted in the recent publication of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change's Special Report (<http://www.ipcc.ch/>). These markets have received far less scrutiny than sectors such as food, agriculture, energy, and transportation, but the business, governmental, and societal change needed to address the shortcomings in these sectors is of growing and immediate interest. Since the earliest research into these field in the mid-2000's, there has been a slow but steady expansion of books and papers in these sectors.
