

Special Issue

Sustainable Short Sea Shipping

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue intends to look into innovative ideas, trends and efforts, especially applications, with good potentials to increase the sustainability of SSS. Special emphasis is given to the operational measures and economic incentives with potential to reduce GHG emissions and air pollution from SO_x, NO_x and particles. Articles with a strong empirical content, such as case studies that provide critical overview and reflect the cutting-edge progress in this field are particularly sought after. Topics of interest of this Special Issue on sustainable SSS include, but are not limited to:

- Operational issues for energy efficient maritime transport
- Fiscal/economic incentives for sustainable shipping
- Sustainable maritime-based transport chains
- Maritime logistics operations and emissions/energy consumption
- Private firm strategies and public interventions targeting maritime GHG emissions and air pollution
- Role of policies/regulations for sustainable maritime growth
