Corporate Environmental Performance and Disclosure: Implications for Sustainability

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue aims to explore and advance our understanding of how corporate environmental performance and disclosure practices contribute to sustainability. As businesses face increasing pressure to address environmental challenges, understanding the implications of their environmental performance and disclosure practices is essential for sustainable development. We invite scholars and practitioners to submit their original research and insightful contributions. Topics may include, but are not limited to:

- Corporate environmental performance and market valuation;
- Corporate environmental disclosure and environmental performance/carbon emissions;
- Environmental regulations/policies and corporate environmental practices and disclosure;
- Comparative analyses of environmental performance and disclosure practices across industries, regions, or countries;
- The role of technology and innovation in driving environmental sustainability;
- The effectiveness of sustainability-reporting frameworks and standards in promoting environmental disclosure and performance;
- Corporate environmental performance and carbon neutrality;
- Corporate environmental disclosure and greenwashing.
