Sustainable Agriculture, Aquaculture and Livestock Practices: Enhancing Food Supply Chains for a Resilient Future

Message from the Guest Editors

This issue seeks to present research and case studies that demonstrate how these sustainable practices can enhance food security, improve social well-being, and build resilience against climate change and other challenges. It aims to contribute to the ongoing discourse on resilience and ways of enhancing future supply chains by providing insights and solutions that support the transition towards sustainable systems. This aligns with the scope of the journal on land and aquatic ecosystems maintenance, biodiversity preservation, and applications of sustainability. In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but need not be limited to) the following:

- Climate-smart agriculture;
- Climate-smart aquaculture;
- Sustainable fisheries;
- Organic farming;
- Agroforestry;
- Integrated pest management (IPM);
- Innovation and technologies;
- Agribusiness;
- Sustainable livestock production.

We look forward to receiving your contributions.
