

Special Issue

Sustainability of Animal Production Systems

Message from the Guest Editors

The goal of this Special Issue is to include original research papers as well as review articles on the efficiency and sustainability of animal production systems. Papers from all species are welcome if they are about farmed and managed animal systems or add knowledge to them (e.g., poultry, cattle, buffalo, sheep, pigs, rabbits, and fish). Special (but not exclusive) focus is placed on the following topics:

- Opportunities and challenges in the sustainability of animal production systems;
- Factors affecting sustainability;
- Climate change and effects on the sustainability of animal systems;
- Green production methods and technologies;
- Sustainability of animal use and demand for animal products;
- Sustainable animal welfare, health, and biosecurity measures;
- Sustainable animal nutrition and physiology;
- Smart technology and precision livestock farming;
- Organic farming;
- Achieving environmentally sustainable livestock production.
