

Special Issue

Urban Health and Sustainability

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to promote innovative case-studies, concepts, methods, and tools that aim at integrating urban health and sustainability. In line with the context and aims outlined above, we invite original research contributions on the following topics (may be extended):

- Interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary research approaches and studies integrating urban health and sustainability issues;

- Innovative geospatial and participatory approaches of the co-creation of data and knowledge on urban health and sustainability in cities;

- Studies on indicators as a basis for interventions in healthy urban and/or sustainable development;

- Studies on cumulative burdens and health-related inequalities;

- Meaningful involvement of citizens or stakeholder in local decision procedures;

- Evaluation of interventions in the fields of urban health and/or sustainability.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
