

Special Issue

Sustainable Project Management, Planning and Procurement

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to advance the knowledge of how sustainable project management, planning and procurement can tackle the above challenges. We invite submissions to reflect on the following subjects:

- Sustainable projects and their management as a vehicle to achieve SDGs:
- What are the specificities of sustainable projects' institutional and organizational contexts?
- What are the value and benefits of sustainable project management beyond the Iron Triangle?
- How do multi-stakeholders collaborate on temporary projects but with long-lasting impacts?
- What are the enabling mechanisms to promote the co-creation of different stakeholders?
- Translating sustainability goals into planning and procurement:
- How does the early involvement of contractors contribute to improving circular construction?
- What should be considered when calculating the costs of going green, and how should trade-offs be established?
- How do you develop and implement an ESG strategy in a project?
- How can the ecosystem philosophy be used as an inspiration to redefine the project's collaborative relationships?
- What are the procurement methods and collaboration forms needed to achieve SDGs?

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
