

Special Issue

Sustainable Development Goals, Valuation and Management of the Built Environment Stock

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue welcomes research that shines a light on our comprehension of the true value of land, buildings, and other constructed facilities owned by municipalities and major private companies. In particular, it seeks the contribution that address sustainable development issues in the economics and management of construction investment projects, both new construction and R&M works. Research may include (but is not limited to) the following sustainability-focused topics:

- valuation of different types of properties (social housing, investment property, public facilities);
- economic evaluation and management of construction investment projects;
- innovative finance schemes for development projects promoted by public authorities;
- procurement practices;
- replacement policies of building components and equipment;
- methodologies for setting up economic useful lives of building and building components.
