

Special Issue

Sustainable Conversion of Renewable Energy Sources

Message from the Guest Editors

In this Special Issue, we aim to provide ground for up-to-date, fruitful, and actionable insights into economic, social, and environmental sustainability. Original research articles and reviews that use conceptual models, analytical frameworks, or empirical studies from critical perspectives and in different contexts will be considered. These perspectives should indicate their potential to bring about actionable insights and fruitful research outcomes. We welcome experimental, theoretical, and empirical contributions that, within the scope of a multidisciplinary approach, may collectively provide a reference for pressing environmental issues and describe the interaction between renewable fuels, CO2 mitigation, and global warming.
