Ecotourism and Sustainable Development: Challenges and Opportunities

Message from the Guest Editors

Considering your expertise, you are invited to submit your work in a Special Issue entitled “Ecotourism and Sustainable Development: Challenges and Opportunities” at the international, peer-reviewed open access journal Sustainability. The scope of the issue is aiming to bridge research conducted at a multi-disciplinary level and address issues relevant to the sustainable practice of ecotourism; a worldwide fast-growing trend in the travel industry.

The purpose of this issue is to show the work that has been done from a wide range of multi-disciplinary professions. Specifically, scientific organizations (from the research fields of environment economy, business, computer sciences, etc.), hospitality professions, policy makers, NGOs and stakeholders can help enlighten the path to achieve sustainable long-term practices of ecotourism while safeguarding ecosystems. You are all welcome to take advantage of this unique outstanding opportunity to show your work. Chief : Assistant :
