

Special Issue

Education and Sustainable Development

Message from the Guest Editors

We invite submissions related to one or more of the following core research areas:

- Climate change education, education for sustainability, and climate literacy
- Influence of education on pro-environmental behavior by individuals and households
- The relevant mechanisms explaining the effects of education; the role of education in environmental awareness/consciousness, knowledge, skills, and values
- Abilities to adapt to changing environments; resilience-building; disaster risk reduction
- Support for green policies; support for mitigation actions on a governmental level
- Education, learning, and modern information and communication technologies
- Impacts of education policies and their implications for sustainable development (examples from the least-developed countries are particularly welcome)
- Forecasting future developments and trends, and implications of future changes

We look forward to receiving your submissions. Should you have any questions about the content of the special issue and the suitability of your research, please do not hesitate to contact us.
