

Special Issue

Toward Sustainability: A Focus on Innovative Renewable Energy Harvesting Systems

Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue will also cover topics related to energy policy, energy systems, compact design, relation to power grid, renewable energy standards, public awareness, and promotional strategies for large adaption. There are many technologies that are not implemented since people are not aware of their development. Additionally, the risk of new technology is blocking the progression of a wider adaption. Discussions on how technology can be transferred to a regular person are of interest.
