Global Resource Industries and Environmental Conflicts: Disciplinary Approaches, Methods, Literatures and Comparative Insights

Message from the Guest Editor

Over the past twenty years, investment in primary resource production has grown worldwide. Scholarship of resource conflicts has followed, and we know quite a bit now about the factors that drive these conflicts and the character of collective movements to challenge these industries; however, this Special Issue takes up three limitations to this scholarship. First, the literature is somewhat contained within disciplinary boundaries. We seek manuscripts that bring disciplinary/conceptual/methodological and literature-specific themes to the fore to begin to think through how scholars might harness the strengths interdisciplinary approaches. Topics within this rubric may include:

- Case studies/reflections on methodological approaches to studying resources industries and conflicts;
- Reviews of the literature within certain disciplinary or cross-disciplinary parameters;
- Conceptual and theoretical approaches to thinking through resource industries and conflicts.
