

Special Issue

International Fisheries Policy and Economic Analysis

Message from the Guest Editors

We seek papers for this Special Issue regarding effective international fisheries policy that address the complex issues of food and income security, fisheries management, fisheries economics, marine environment, and the ecologically sustainable development of international fisheries. Papers can be reviews, syntheses, viewpoints, meta-analyses, and original research relevant to the environmental, ecological, biological, policy, human, development, economic, or technological aspects of sustainability on international fisheries policy.
