

Special Issue

Responsible Business and SDGs

Message from the Guest Editors

The special issue is aiming to investigate how the corporate sector anchors, embeds, engages, and reports sustainability practices for the sake of implementation of the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) 2030. Responsible business practices may help companies to navigate and contribute to the SDGs towards the 2030 horizon goal to create a better world for everybody. Corporations may help to implement SDGs in many ways, including anchoring SDGs within business practices, embedding sustainability across different functions, engaging in partnership, and reporting sustainability practices. The Special Issue aims to explore the issues around responsible business practices by the corporate sector to implement SDGs. Topics of interest include but are not limited to the following:

- Sustainability and climate change
- Sustainability reporting (carbon reporting and CSR reporting)
- Inclusion in the workplace and employee welfare
- Outsourcing CO2 emission in the developing countries
- Responsible business and climate finance

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international open access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
