

Special Issue

Geopolitical Risk in Emerging Economies

Message from the Guest Editors

This special issue aims to publish high-quality research papers on the inter-disciplinary field of geopolitical risk in emerging economies analyzing the asymmetric nature of shocks in the economy and their implications on the business, energy, tourism, and financial system. Further, this issue investigates the dependence structure among business cycles and financial asset classes such as stocks, commodities, fintech, and green investments. This special issue focuses on the following issues:

- The impact of economic and financial uncertainties on financial markets
- Geopolitics and cyber threat in energy markets and financial system
- The impact of uncertainties on financial asset classes such as stocks, commodities, fintech, and green investments
- The impact of terrorist attacks and political uncertainty on the tourism industry
- Measuring systemic risk in the financial markets.

Deadline for submission full paper: July 30, 2020.
