Advances in Building Adaptive Re-design and Retrofit for Sustainable, Resilient Property

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue covers impacts caused by different chronic and acute crisis factors to gain a deeper understanding of the ways buildings could, and should, be used and managed to support different stakeholders (including households, office workers, owners, renters, occupants, and public and private sector organisations). Papers should cover theoretical aspects and present options and solutions at the space, building, and community level to promote a sustainable resilient built environment.
