

Special Issue

Sustainable Tourism in International Context: Solutions during and after the Global Pandemic Crisis

Message from the Guest Editors

Global tourist arrivals have increased from 25 million internationally in 1950 to 278m in 1980, 527m in 1995, 1.32 billion in 2017, and are expected to reach 1.8 billion by 2030. How do we make global tourism sustainable, especially after the COVID-19 pandemic? The concept of tourism sustainability is progressively becoming a complex issue in relation to how companies, stakeholders, and governments meet the ever-growing demands and opportunities on a global scale.

With this Special Issue, the attempt to address global economic, environmental, and social aspects of sustainable development in tourism through policies, best practices, strategies, and initiatives with all stakeholders, including indigenous people, local communities, visitors, industry and government.
