Special Issue

Public Value and Public Service: Reconsidering Humans in a Vuca-D Society

Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue is directed toward scholars and practitioners in the field and embraces a transdisciplinary perspective, welcoming contributions from a wide range of disciplines, including administrative, governance, policy, social, organizational, psychological or welfare elements.

The Special Issue is considered a privileged publication output for the FMOS 2025 Conference (#FMOS2025– https://aus.swiss/fmos-2025) and SSRM (#SSRM2025– https://aus.swiss/ssrm-2025). We will also invite the interdisciplinary community of the American Institute of Applied Sciences in Switzerland (around 700 members) and their respective networks to contribute to this Special Issue.

Topics of interest include, but are not limited to, the following research areas:

Post-pandemic sustainability;
Diversity, equity and inclusion;
New visions for transport and infrastructure;
Innovation in transport;
Artificial intelligence and sustainability;
Metaverse and sustainability;
Poverty reduction;
Responsible and sustainable tourism;
Risk management;
Challenges in retail operations;

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Systems is a leading venue for the quick and global dissemination of results of cutting-edge research in various areas of systems science and systems-related fields. An increasing number of researchers are realizing the enormous potential of systems thinking in managing the many unprecedented and complex issues in all areas of need. The Systems journal provides a home of exceptional quality for the manuscripts of these researchers who often find it difficult to publish their work in conventional discipline focused journals.
