AI Robotics Technologies and Their Applications

Message from the Guest Editors

Our Special Issue explores the diverse applications of AI in robotics. We cover topics ranging from the development of human–robot interfaces and AI in spaces where humans and robots coexist to AI applications in medical robotics and systems, as well as digital twin technology in robotics. We welcome research that examines how advancements in AI are driving innovation in robotics, along with real-world case studies. We encourage researchers who seek to expand the boundaries of AI and robotics to submit their work and contribute to this evolving field.
