Multimedia and Cross-modal Retrieval

Message from the Guest Editors

The proliferation and importance of multimedia data have increased significantly in recent years. This is obvious for the World Wide Web (social media data, videos, etc.), but, also, automatically-generated sensor data have become more and more relevant. In this Special Issue we seek for contributions in the field of multimedia/multimodal analysis and retrieval in a broad sense. We invite submissions from, but not limited to, the following subject areas: (a) analysis and understanding of multimodal data and cross-modal searches;

- (b) social media analysis;
- (c) affective multimedia content analysis;
- (d) multimedia analytics, machine learning and deep learning for multimedia;
- (e) HCl and visualisation for exploration of large multimedia databases
- (f) multimedia applications for academic search, digital humanities, sports, medicine, etc.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Technologies, provides a single focus for reporting on developments of all technologies, regardless of their application. It is our intention that Technologies becomes the journal of choice for both researchers wanting to publish their work and technologists wishing to exploit the high quality research across a wide range of potential applications. Through its open access policy, its quick publication cycle, Technologies will facilitate the rapid uptake and development of the research presented, ultimately providing benefit to the wider society.
