

Special Issue

Biomonitoring of Toxic Elements and Emerging Pollutants

Message from the Guest Editors

We would like to invite you to submit a manuscript related to your work on biomonitoring of organic or inorganic contaminants in living beings. The aim is to cover anthropogenic and natural pollution, using both experimental and theoretical approaches, as well as new developments in methodology. Of interest are monitoring and analysis of pollutant levels, sources and transport of toxic substances, statistical analysis and prediction of future trends, effects of pollution on biological and biochemical processes, as well as strategies to prevent and eliminate pollution and establish tolerable levels. Manuscripts will be published in this Special Issue of the journal Toxics (impact factor 3.9). Toxics is a highly respected MDPI publication with increasing visibility and exposure for scientists from around the world.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Toxics (ISSN 2305-6304) is an international, peer-reviewed, open access journal which provides an advanced forum for studies related to all aspects of toxic chemicals and materials. We aim to publish high quality work that furthers our understanding of the exposure, effects, and risks of chemicals and materials in humans and the natural environment as well as approaches to assess and/or manage the toxicological and ecotoxicological risks of chemicals and materials. Please consider publishing in Toxics when preparing your next paper.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Toxicology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Chemical Health and Safety)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 18.1 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 1.9 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
