One Health, Many Risks: Ecotoxicology in the Age of Emerging Pollutants

Message from the Guest Editors

We are delighted to invite you to submit your research to the Special Issue "One Health, Many Risks: Ecotoxicology in the Age of Emerging Pollutants" in Toxics. This Special Issue focuses on the pivotal role of ecotoxicology in assessing the health risks posed by hazardous organic pollutants, pharmaceutical residues, endocrine disruptors, rare earth elements (REEs), and other emerging environmental contaminants. These pollutants present a growing threat to human, animal, and environmental health, particularly through chronic exposure pathways such as dietary intake, dermal absorption, and inhalation of volatile organic compounds (VOCs), in both environmental and occupational settings. For further reading, please visit the Special Issue Website. We look forward to your valuable submissions that contribute to advancing knowledge in this critical field.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Toxics (ISSN 2305-6304) is an international, peer-reviewed, open access journal which provides an advanced forum for studies related to all aspects of toxic chemicals and materials. We aim to publish high quality work that furthers our understanding of the exposure, effects, and risks of chemicals and materials in humans and the natural environment as well as approaches to assess and/or manage the toxicological and ecotoxicological risks of chemicals and materials. Please consider publishing in Toxics when preparing your next paper.
