Human Biomonitoring of Emerging Agricultural Exposure: Risks and Health Impacts

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue discusses the development of analytical methods for the biological monitoring of emerging risks exposure in agriculture, mainly focusing on biological toxins and the analysis of the results for evaluating the exposure of workers and the general population. This Special Issue solicits therefore the submission of original research and review articles on this topic.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Toxics (ISSN 2305-6304) is an international, peer-reviewed, open access journal which provides an advanced forum for studies related to all aspects of toxic chemicals and materials. We aim to publish high quality work that furthers our understanding of the exposure, effects, and risks of chemicals and materials in humans and the natural environment as well as approaches to assess and/or manage the toxicological and ecotoxicological risks of chemicals and materials. Please consider publishing in Toxics when preparing your next paper.
