Exposure and Risk Assessment of Emerging Pollutants

Message from the Guest Editors

The recent increasing demand for healthier, more environmentally friendly, and greener products and materials in our daily lives has manifested, at an alarming rate, in the form of new and emerging pollutants and substances of growing concern. This Special Issue aims to feature full-length articles, reviews, and communications addressing novel research on this topic from a multidisciplinary point of view, including (but not limited to) the following topics:

- New analytical methods for environmental and biological samples;
- External exposure assessment of emerging pollutants;
- Internal exposure assessment of emerging pollutants;
- Novel developments in human biomonitoring;
- Alternative approaches to risk assessments and management;
- New regulatory guidelines for emerging pollutants.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Toxics (ISSN 2305-6304) is an international, peer-reviewed, open access journal which provides an advanced forum for studies related to all aspects of toxic chemicals and materials. We aim to publish high quality work that furthers our understanding of the exposure, effects, and risks of chemicals and materials in humans and the natural environment as well as approaches to assess and/or manage the toxicological and ecotoxicological risks of chemicals and materials. Please consider publishing in Toxics when preparing your next paper.
