The Botulinum Toxin and Spasticity: Exploring New Horizons

Message from the Guest Editors

It is with great enthusiasm that we, and , invite you to contribute to a pivotal Special Issue of the Toxins journal, entitled "The Botulinum Toxin and Spasticity: Exploring New Horizons". We welcome submissions that delve into the latest research, innovative treatments, and comprehensive reviews on this topic. Areas of particular interest include but are not limited to:

- Tailoring the botulinum toxin for spasticity due to conditions such as stroke, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, and spinal cord injuries.
- Highlighting advancements in neurophysiological studies and other tools for improving treatments and understanding patient outcomes.

- ...

We eagerly anticipate your submissions of original research papers and comprehensive reviews. Your expertise will significantly contribute to advancing our collective understanding of the botulinum toxin in the nuanced management of spasticity and its applications.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Toxinology is an incredibly diverse area of study, ranging from field surveys of environmental toxins to the study of toxin action at the molecular level. The editorial board and staff of Toxins are dedicated to providing a timely, peer-reviewed outlet for exciting, innovative primary research articles and concise, informative reviews from investigators in the myriad of disciplines contributing to our knowledge on toxins. We are committed to meeting the needs of the toxin research community by offering useful and timely reviews of all manuscripts submitted. Please consider Toxins when submitting your work for publication.
