Immunotoxins: Current Status and Future Perspectives

Message from the Guest Editor

We are pleased to invite you to submit your work to “Immunotoxins: Current Status and Future Perspectives” that I am organizing in the journal Toxins (ISSN 2072-6651, IF 4.546). This Special Issue aims to provide a platform for professionals to understand the recent advancements and challenges in immunotoxins research. Suggested themes and article types for submissions include antibody–toxin conjugates; monoclonal antibodies; epitope target identification; antibody–drug conjugates; immunoliposomes; therapeutic use; drug targeting; targeted therapy; construction of molecules; delivery; mechanism of action and resistance; clinical application; cancer (pancreatic adenocarcinoma, liver cancer; hairy cell leukemia and others); as well as cholera toxin, dianthin, trichosanthin, and mesothelin. In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but are not limited to): cancer; COVID-19; animal venoms; bacterial toxins; marine and freshwater toxins; mycotoxins; plant toxins; uremic toxins; chimeric molecules; antibodies; and others. We look forward to your contribution.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Toxinology is an incredibly diverse area of study, ranging from field surveys of environmental toxins to the study of toxin action at the molecular level. The editorial board and staff of Toxins are dedicated to providing a timely, peer-reviewed outlet for exciting, innovative primary research articles and concise, informative reviews from investigators in the myriad of disciplines contributing to our knowledge on toxins. We are committed to meeting the needs of the toxin research community by offering useful and timely reviews of all manuscripts submitted. Please consider Toxins when submitting your work for publication.
