

Special Issue

Selected Papers from the 3rd African Society of Mycotoxicology Joint MYTOX-SOUTH Conference

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue will publish peer-reviewed manuscripts presented at the 3rd ASM joint Mytox South Conference which will be held from 4 to 7 September 2022 in Stellenbosch, South Africa. The Special Issue aims to identify the current status of mycotoxins in foods in Africa, safety of foods, consumer health and Africa's food security, advances in testing, regulations, and current and future management technologies, including predictive modeling, health, and trade implications. The Special Issue will cover the conference topics:

- Intra- and intercontinental partnerships toward mitigating mycotoxins in African food and feed value chains;
- Surveillance, mitigation, and prediction of mycotoxin prevalence;
- Health impact of multi-mycotoxins and modified/hidden mycotoxins;
- Management of mycotoxigenic fungi and mycotoxins;
- Food and feed processing and technologies to reduce mycotoxin contamination;
- New technologies to ensure food security and food safety;
- Current and future challenges to ensure food safety.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Toxinology is an incredibly diverse area of study, ranging from field surveys of environmental toxins to the study of toxin action at the molecular level. The editorial board and staff of Toxins are dedicated to providing a timely, peer-reviewed outlet for exciting, innovative primary research articles and concise, informative reviews from investigators in the myriad of disciplines contributing to our knowledge on toxins. We are committed to meeting the needs of the toxin research community by offering useful and timely reviews of all manuscripts submitted. Please consider Toxins when submitting your work for publication.
