

Special Issue

Mycotoxins and Food

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue will focus on mycotoxins, but research on innovative approaches with interactions of different competences will be welcome. This Special Issue will include results coming from conventional investigations, analytical improvements, biosensors, new food matrixes, evaluations of food safety, and new ideas coming from bioinformatics, microbiological aspects, microbiome interactions, biological assays, mycotoxin reduction processes in food, and masked mycotoxins. The goal of this Special Issue is to collect contributions from researchers new to this field and to invite to interactions in order to enlarge the number of researchers involved in mycotoxin research.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Toxinology is an incredibly diverse area of study, ranging from field surveys of environmental toxins to the study of toxin action at the molecular level. The editorial board and staff of Toxins are dedicated to providing a timely, peer-reviewed outlet for exciting, innovative primary research articles and concise, informative reviews from investigators in the myriad of disciplines contributing to our knowledge on toxins. We are committed to meeting the needs of the toxin research community by offering useful and timely reviews of all manuscripts submitted. Please consider Toxins when submitting your work for publication.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Toxicology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Toxicology)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 19.5 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.8 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2025).
