Moving Towards Sustainable Transport in Urban Environments

Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue, "Moving Towards Sustainable Transport in Urban Environments", aims to explore and address the multifaceted challenges and opportunities associated with transforming urban transportation systems into more sustainable models for the future. The primary focus is on innovative strategies, technological advancements, policy frameworks, and behavioral approaches promoting environmentally friendly, efficient, and equitable urban mobility. It aims to integrate sustainable transportation modes such as public transit, cycling, walking, and electric vehicles. It also utilizes a co-modal approach alongside mobility solutions and urban planning initiatives to facilitate the sustainable development of urban environments.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Urban Science is a scholarly international journal which provides a platform for the exchange of theories, ideas, methods, analyses, and comparative studies of urban and regional development. It is a peer-reviewed, open access journal that publishes high quality original articles, theoretical essays, critical reviews, research notes, and shorter communications. Its broad definition of "science" includes both quantitative and qualitative methods of social, environmental, and spatial analysis. There is no restriction on the maximum length of the papers.
