

Special Issue

Knowledge Management and Smart Sustainable Cities: Learning Cases of Urban Governance

Message from the Guest Editors

The purpose of this Special Issue is to encourage the sharing of best practices in KM systems applied to the governance of smarter and more sustainable cities. The editors believe that sharing such cases is fundamental to guide and, above all, to accelerate the ongoing digital transformation process. The Editors of this Special Issue encourage submissions addressing, but not limited to, the following topics and issues:

- Learning cases that show the joint application of the concepts of Knowledge Management, Smart Cities, and Smart Governance
- Learning cases on knowledge management systems used in the digital transformation of cities (applied to specific sectors/problem solving)
- Good practices in the development and implementation of indicator systems in the delimitation and monitoring of urban policies and services
- Good practices in urban planning and management using ICT to increase citizen participation in urban governance

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Urban Science is a scholarly international journal which provides a platform for the exchange of theories, ideas, methods, analyses, and comparative studies of urban and regional development. It is a peer-reviewed, open access journal that publishes high quality original articles, theoretical essays, critical reviews, research notes, and shorter communications. Its broad definition of “science” includes both quantitative and qualitative methods of social, environmental, and spatial analysis. There is no restriction on the maximum length of the papers.
