Strategies to Address Falling Vaccine Coverage and Vaccine Hesitancy

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue explores strategies and interventions to counteract falling vaccine coverage and vaccine hesitancy. It seeks to better understand the underlying causes of vaccine hesitancy, evaluate the effectiveness of different intervention strategies, and provide practical recommendations. In this Special Issue, we welcome original research articles and reviews that cover various aspects of vaccine coverage and hesitancy, including but not limited to the following:

- Determinants of vaccine hesitancy;
- Misinformation/inadequate communication;
- Promoting vaccine acceptance and intervention effectiveness;
- Community approaches to increasing vaccine uptake;
- Innovations that support vaccination campaigns;

I look forward to receiving your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Vaccines (ISSN 2076-393X) has had a 6-year history of publishing peer-reviewed state of the art research that advances the knowledge of immunology in human disease protection. Immunotherapeutics, prophylactic vaccines, immunomodulators, adjuvants and the global differences in regulatory affairs are some of the highlights of the research published that have shaped global health. Our open access policy allows all researchers and interested parties to immediately scrutinize the rigorous evidence our publications have to offer. We are proud to present the work and perspectives of many to contribute to future decisions concerning human health.
