The Immune Response in Patients after COVID-19 Vaccination

Message from the Guest Editors

The purpose of this Special Issue is to investigate the immunization response, vaccination status, and clinical outcomes in immunocompetent and immunocompromised adults, especially those with sarcoidosis, other interstitial lung diseases or other immunosuppressant statuses, from an immunological or clinical perspective. We look forward to your contributions to this Special Issue, which we hope will contribute to the knowledge regarding this emerging landscape.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Vaccines (ISSN 2076-393X) has had a 6-year history of publishing peer-reviewed state of the art research that advances the knowledge of immunology in human disease protection. Immunotherapeutics, prophylactic vaccines, immunomodulators, adjuvants and the global differences in regulatory affairs are some of the highlights of the research published that have shaped global health. Our open access policy allows all researchers and interested parties to immediately scrutinize the rigorous evidence our publications have to offer. We are proud to present the work and perspectives of many to contribute to future decisions concerning human health.
