

Special Issue

Feature Papers of Clinical Immunology

Message from the Guest Editor

As Section Editor-in-Chief of Clinical Immunology, I am glad to announce the Special Issue "Feature Papers of Clinical Immunology". This Special Issue of the Journal welcomes manuscripts on clinical immunology researches from several perspectives, including epidemiology, pathogenesis, animal models, clinical manifestations, disease association, and treatment. Studies on the relationships between host and pathogen reactions as well as on side effects of vaccines are also encouraged. We welcome the submission of manuscripts from Editorial Board Members and from outstanding scholars invited by the Editorial Board and the Editorial Office. You are welcome to send short proposals for submissions of Feature Papers to our Editorial Office (Vaccines@mdpi.com) for evaluation.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Vaccines (ISSN 2076-393X), founded in 2013, now has a firm history of publishing peer-reviewed, state-of-the-art research papers on vaccines and vaccination in the broadest sense. Areas covered include, but are not limited to, novel and emerging vaccine technologies, building on in-depth knowledge of what constitutes a protective immune response. These can be new vaccines for old diseases, or old vaccines for new diseases. Vaccines against cancer and autoimmune diseases explicitly are also within the scope of the journal. Because public opinion and even government policies towards vaccines and vaccination have changed, vaccine policy and public health issues are major concerns. Climate change will also have an impact on the spread of infectious diseases, and thus also on vaccine and vaccination policies worldwide.
