

Special Issue

Influenza Virus Infections, Vaccines and Diagnosis

Message from the Guest Editors

In this Special Issue, we encourage the submission of papers—such as research articles, case reports, and reviews—focused on recent advances in the field. We particularly welcome studies that examine host-pathogen relationships and the dynamics of innate and adaptive immune responses. We are also interested in developing novel and broadly effective prophylactic or therapeutic approaches to treat influenza.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Vaccines (ISSN 2076-393X) has had a 6-year history of publishing peer-reviewed state of the art research that advances the knowledge of immunology in human disease protection. Immunotherapeutics, prophylactic vaccines, immunomodulators, adjuvants and the global differences in regulatory affairs are some of the highlights of the research published that have shaped global health. Our open access policy allows all researchers and interested parties to immediately scrutinize the rigorous evidence our publications have to offer. We are proud to present the work and perspectives of many to contribute to future decisions concerning human health.
