Neutralizing Antibody Response against SARS-CoV-2

Message from the Guest Editors

We look forward to your contributions, that include the virus neutralization data (live virus or surrogate assays) on sera samples from healthy/immune-compromised individuals with a background of vaccination against SARS-CoV-2, natural infection, or both. For your convenience, please find ' Research Interests here: : Infection and Immunity, Immunotherapy, Check-Point Inhibitors and Stimulators, T cell response against SARS-CoV-2, Viral Immunity, Translational Research, Clinical Trials, Bacterial and Viral Vaccines, Immune mechanism behind antivirals, host-pathogen immunology : vaccination against SARS-CoV-2; antiviral research; host-pathogen interaction

How we can have cooperation in the near future.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Vaccines (ISSN 2076-393X) has had a 6-year history of publishing peer-reviewed state of the art research that advances the knowledge of immunology in human disease protection. Immunotherapeutics, prophylactic vaccines, immunomodulators, adjuvants and the global differences in regulatory affairs are some of the highlights of the research published that have shaped global health. Our open access policy allows all researchers and interested parties to immediately scrutinize the rigorous evidence our publications have to offer. We are proud to present the work and perspectives of many to contribute to future decisions concerning human health.
