

Special Issue

Vaccination Related Adverse Reaction

Message from the Guest Editors

It is our pleasure to announce a new Special Issue on vaccine-related adverse reactions. This issue will feature not only SARS-CoV-2 vaccines but also adverse reactions of vaccines such as influenza, rubella and measles, etc. We welcome not only major side reactions but also minor adverse reactions. We also welcome reviews, research treatises, and case reports.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Vaccines (ISSN 2076-393X), founded in 2013, now has a firm history of publishing peer-reviewed, state-of-the-art research papers on vaccines and vaccination in the broadest sense. Areas covered include, but are not limited to, novel and emerging vaccine technologies, building on in-depth knowledge of what constitutes a protective immune response. These can be new vaccines for old diseases, or old vaccines for new diseases. Vaccines against cancer and autoimmune diseases explicitly are also within the scope of the journal. Because public opinion and even government policies towards vaccines and vaccination have changed, vaccine policy and public health issues are major concerns. Climate change will also have an impact on the spread of infectious diseases, and thus also on vaccine and vaccination policies worldwide.
