Influenza B Virus: From Infection to Prevention

Message from the Guest Editor

The objective of this Special Issue is to collect articles (research articles, short communications, reviews, and commentaries) that focus on surveillance, advancing knowledge about IBV epidemiology, evolution, antigenicity, pathogenesis, and immunity, as well as suitable animal models for infection, which is critical for the development of seasonal influenza vaccines and novel treatment strategies.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Viruses (ISSN 1999-4915) is an open access journal which provides an advanced forum for studies of viruses. It publishes reviews, regular research papers, communications, conference reports and short notes. Our aim is to encourage scientists to publish their experimental and theoretical results in as much detail as possible. There is no restriction on the length of the papers. The full experimental details must be provided so that the results can be reproduced. We also encourage the publication of timely reviews and commentaries on topics of interest to the virology community and feature highlights from the virology literature in the 'News and Views' section.

Electronic files or software regarding the full details of the calculation and experimental procedure, if unable to be published in a normal way, can be deposited as supplementary material.
