

Special Issue

Studies on the Diversity and Ecology of Marine Phytoplankton

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim of this Special Issue is to collate studies reporting on recent innovations and modern techniques, trends, and concerns, as well as the practical challenges encountered and solutions adopted in the fields of marine phytoplankton diversity and ecology. Research articles, reviews, notes, and comments are welcome. More info can be found at the link:

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

In the context of global changes, the sustainable management of water cycles, going from global and regional water cycles to urban, industrial and agricultural water cycles, plays a very important role on the water resources and on their relationships with food, energy, biodiversity, ecosystem functioning and human health. Water invites authors to provide innovative original full articles, critical reviews and timely short communications and to propose special issues devoted to new technological and scientific domains and to interdisciplinary approaches of the water cycles. We ensure a critical review process and a quick turnaround between submission and final decision.
