Special Issue

Wastewater Treatment, Recycling and Reuse

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue focuses on the use of wastewater treatment methods that allow both the removal of pollutants (organic and inorganic) from wastewater and the possibility of its reuse (in agricultural or industrial activities). Original research papers of high scientific quality as well as review articles are welcome. Manuscripts can cover, but are not limited to, the following topics:

- Efficient treatment of water/wastewater containing inorganic and organic pollutants;
- New composite materials with applications in water/wastewater treatment;
- Developments of cost-effective methods for recycling and reuse of treated water:
- New strategies to reuse and reduce water waste.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

In the context of global changes, the sustainable management of water cycles, going from global and regional water cycles to urban, industrial and agricultural water cycles, plays a very important role on the water resources and on their relationships with food, energy, biodiversity, ecosystem functioning and human health. Water invites authors to provide innovative original full articles, critical reviews and timely short communications and to propose special issues devoted to new technological and scientific domains and to interdisciplinary approaches of the water cycles. We ensure a critical review process and a quick turnaround between submission and final decision.
