LGBTIQ+ Youth: Experiences, Needs, and Aspirations

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue of Youth will be focused on youth who identify as Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Intersex, Queer, and/or other diverse sexual orientations and gender identities (LGBTIQ+). We are particularly interested in their experiences, needs, and aspirations, across a range of disciplines. LGBTIQ+ youth often face heightened levels of homelessness, family ostracisation, bullying, poor mental health, foster care, poverty, poor physical health, and so on. Despite this breadth of existing literature, there still exists a need for further research on the needs, experiences, and aspirations of this demographic. We are interested in how LGBTIQ+ identity intersects with other aspects of identity (such as ethnicity, disability, and class), as well as strengths-based approaches to research and interventions with LGBTIQ+ youth. Our focus for this Special Issue is on LGBTIQ+ youth, and we are keeping the scope of this Issue broad. We welcome submissions from a diverse range of disciplines and methodologies.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Youth is an international and peer-reviewed journal covering a broad range of topics that all influence persons lumped into the category of youth. The numerous issues of interest to the research community involving youth include mental health, education, sociology, economics, employment, cultural studies, civic engagement, and other social perspectives of youth and young adulthood.

Our goal is to work together with the global research community whose interest and scholarship speak to providing evidence that will support and enhance the lives of youth and the systems that affect their lives. We are interested in working with graduate students, scholars, scientists, and research centers who share this interest.
